

BROOKLYN ST. Stern Bros. Trimmed

will offer to-morrow
50 Cases
Superior quality double faced
Twilled Muslin
Sheets
made and finished in the best manner, at the following
Exceptionally
Low Prices

1 1/2 by 2 1/2 56c 2 1/2 by 2 1/2 79c
2 1/2 by 2 1/2 63c 2 1/2 by 2 1/2 82c
2 1/2 by 2 1/2 70c 2 1/2 by 2 1/2 85c
2 1/2 by 2 1/2 75c 2 1/2 by 2 1/2 89c

Also 6000
Pillow Slips
of various leading makes of muslin

42 by 36 inches at 14c
45 by 36 inches at 14 1/2c
45 by 38 1-2 inches at 15c

West 23d St.

PEPPER AND WHIP FOR HIM.

Postman Pichard's Wife Fined
and Put Under Bonds.

Louise Pichard, the pretty and attractive wife of George L. Pichard, a New York City mail carrier, was put on trial in the Butler Street Police Court, in Brooklyn, this morning on a charge of horsewhipping her husband and throwing red pepper in his eyes on March 18 last.

Mrs. Pichard is about twenty-five years old, tall and well formed, with a very clear complexion of the brunette type. She was arrested this morning in a dark brown velvet suit, surmounted by a neat walking hat trimmed with lavender flowers.

The court-room was filled with friends of the young couple who, before their marriage on Sept. 15 last, were very popular among South Brooklyn people.

Mrs. Pichard lives with her mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Kopp, at 119 Third Avenue, Brooklyn. She and her husband separated on Jan. 8.

Pichard took the stand first. He was attired in the uniform of a letter carrier. He said that as he was going home from work on Saturday afternoon, March 18, he got off a Third Avenue trolley car at Forty-seventh street, and met Elmer Borchers, a friend, who told him that there was trouble up at the house of his mother-in-law.

He had not been there very far before Pichard met his wife walking nervously along the street.

She had secured in her clothing, and lashed him over the head and shoulders. Pichard said that when he left his wife in her wrath, he would have been glad to let her have her way. His wife refused to let him take his clothes away.

Joseph Van Pelt and Elmer Borchers also testified as to the assault.

Mrs. Pichard was put on the stand the second time. She testified that she did not know whether she assaulted her husband or not.

She said that her husband had acted towards her in a brutal manner.

Judge Tighe fined Mrs. Pichard $10 and put her under $200 bonds to keep the peace.

Mrs. Pichard's counsel, Lawyer Bishop, said that he would appeal the conviction in his client's behalf for the annulment of the marriage.

Minor Brooklyn Burglaries.

Mayor Boody Promises Citizens to Have the Police Close Them.

A delegation of citizens from the Fifteenth, Seventeenth and Twenty-third Wards of Brooklyn called upon Mayor Boody, of Brooklyn, to-day to urge him to take some action towards having the police close up the New York creek gate facts.

Brooklyn ST. Stern Bros. Trimmed

will offer to-morrow
50 Cases
Superior quality double faced
Twilled Muslin
Sheets
made and finished in the best manner, at the following
Exceptionally
Low Prices

1 1/2 by 2 1/2 56c 2 1/2 by 2 1/2 79c
2 1/2 by 2 1/2 63c 2 1/2 by 2 1/2 82c
2 1/2 by 2 1/2 70c 2 1/2 by 2 1/2 85c
2 1/2 by 2 1/2 75c 2 1/2 by 2 1/2 89c

Also 6000
Pillow Slips
of various leading makes of muslin

42 by 36 inches at 14c
45 by 36 inches at 14 1/2c
45 by 38 1-2 inches at 15c

West 23d St.

PEPPER AND WHIP FOR HIM.

Postman Pichard's Wife Fined
and Put Under Bonds.

Louise Pichard, the pretty and attractive wife of George L. Pichard, a New York City mail carrier, was put on trial in the Butler Street Police Court, in Brooklyn, this morning on a charge of horsewhipping her husband and throwing red pepper in his eyes on March 18 last.

Mrs. Pichard is about twenty-five years old, tall and well formed, with a very clear complexion of the brunette type. She was arrested this morning in a dark brown velvet suit, surmounted by a neat walking hat trimmed with lavender flowers.

The court-room was filled with friends of the young couple who, before their marriage on Sept. 15 last, were very popular among South Brooklyn people.

Mrs. Pichard lives with her mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Kopp, at 119 Third Avenue, Brooklyn. She and her husband separated on Jan. 8.

Pichard took the stand first. He was attired in the uniform of a letter carrier. He said that as he was going home from work on Saturday afternoon, March 18, he got off a Third Avenue trolley car at Forty-seventh street, and met Elmer Borchers, a friend, who told him that there was trouble up at the house of his mother-in-law.

He had not been there very far before Pichard met his wife walking nervously along the street.

She had secured in her clothing, and lashed him over the head and shoulders. Pichard said that when he left his wife in her wrath, he would have been glad to let her have her way. His wife refused to let him take his clothes away.

Joseph Van Pelt and Elmer Borchers also testified as to the assault.

Mrs. Pichard was put on the stand the second time. She testified that she did not know whether she assaulted her husband or not.

She said that her husband had acted towards her in a brutal manner.

Judge Tighe fined Mrs. Pichard $10 and put her under $200 bonds to keep the peace.

Mrs. Pichard's counsel, Lawyer Bishop, said that he would appeal the conviction in his client's behalf for the annulment of the marriage.

Minor Brooklyn Burglaries.

Mayor Boody Promises Citizens to Have the Police Close Them.

A delegation of citizens from the Fifteenth, Seventeenth and Twenty-third Wards of Brooklyn called upon Mayor Boody, of Brooklyn, to-day to urge him to take some action towards having the police close up the New York creek gate facts.

Brooklyn ST. Stern Bros. Trimmed

will offer to-morrow
50 Cases
Superior quality double faced
Twilled Muslin
Sheets
made and finished in the best manner, at the following
Exceptionally
Low Prices

1 1/2 by 2 1/2 56c 2 1/2 by 2 1/2 79c
2 1/2 by 2 1/2 63c 2 1/2 by 2 1/2 82c
2 1/2 by 2 1/2 70c 2 1/2 by 2 1/2 85c
2 1/2 by 2 1/2 75c 2 1/2 by 2 1/2 89c

Also 6000
Pillow Slips
of various leading makes of muslin

42 by 36 inches at 14c
45 by 36 inches at 14 1/2c
45 by 38 1-2 inches at 15c

West 23d St.

PEPPER AND WHIP FOR HIM.

Postman Pichard's Wife Fined
and Put Under Bonds.

Louise Pichard, the pretty and attractive wife of George L. Pichard, a New York City mail carrier, was put on trial in the Butler Street Police Court, in Brooklyn, this morning on a charge of horsewhipping her husband and throwing red pepper in his eyes on March 18 last.

Mrs. Pichard is about twenty-five years old, tall and well formed, with a very clear complexion of the brunette type. She was arrested this morning in a dark brown velvet suit, surmounted by a neat walking hat trimmed with lavender flowers.

The court-room was filled with friends of the young couple who, before their marriage on Sept. 15 last, were very popular among South Brooklyn people.

Mrs. Pichard lives with her mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Kopp, at 119 Third Avenue, Brooklyn. She and her husband separated on Jan. 8.

Pichard took the stand first. He was attired in the uniform of a letter carrier. He said that as he was going home from work on Saturday afternoon, March 18, he got off a Third Avenue trolley car at Forty-seventh street, and met Elmer Borchers, a friend, who told him that there was trouble up at the house of his mother-in-law.

He had not been there very far before Pichard met his wife walking nervously along the street.

She had secured in her clothing, and lashed him over the head and shoulders. Pichard said that when he left his wife in her wrath, he would have been glad to let her have her way. His wife refused to let him take his clothes away.

Joseph Van Pelt and Elmer Borchers also testified as to the assault.

Mrs. Pichard was put on the stand the second time. She testified that she did not know whether she assaulted her husband or not.

She said that her husband had acted towards her in a brutal manner.

Judge Tighe fined Mrs. Pichard $10 and put her under $200 bonds to keep the peace.

Mrs. Pichard's counsel, Lawyer Bishop, said that he would appeal the conviction in his client's behalf for the annulment of the marriage.

Minor Brooklyn Burglaries.

Mayor Boody Promises Citizens to Have the Police Close Them.

A delegation of citizens from the Fifteenth, Seventeenth and Twenty-third Wards of Brooklyn called upon Mayor Boody, of Brooklyn, to-day to urge him to take some action towards having the police close up the New York creek gate facts.

Brooklyn ST. Stern Bros. Trimmed

will offer to-morrow
50 Cases
Superior quality double faced
Twilled Muslin
Sheets
made and finished in the best manner, at the following
Exceptionally
Low Prices

1 1/2 by 2 1/2 56c 2 1/2 by 2 1/2 79c
2 1/2 by 2 1/2 63c 2 1/2 by 2 1/2 82c
2 1/2 by 2 1/2 70c 2 1/2 by 2 1/2 85c
2 1/2 by 2 1/2 75c 2 1/2 by 2 1/2 89c

Also 6000
Pillow Slips
of various leading makes of muslin

42 by 36 inches at 14c
45 by 36 inches at 14 1/2c
45 by 38 1-2 inches at 15c

West 23d St.

PEPPER AND WHIP FOR HIM.

Postman Pichard's Wife Fined
and Put Under Bonds.

Louise Pichard, the pretty and attractive wife of George L. Pichard, a New York City mail carrier, was put on trial in the Butler Street Police Court, in Brooklyn, this morning on a charge of horsewhipping her husband and throwing red pepper in his eyes on March 18 last.

Mrs. Pichard is about twenty-five years old, tall and well formed, with a very clear complexion of the brunette type. She was arrested this morning in a dark brown velvet suit, surmounted by a neat walking hat trimmed with lavender flowers.

The court-room was filled with friends of the young couple who, before their marriage on Sept. 15 last, were very popular among South Brooklyn people.

Mrs. Pichard lives with her mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Kopp, at 119 Third Avenue, Brooklyn. She and her husband separated on Jan. 8.

Pichard took the stand first. He was attired in the uniform of a letter carrier. He said that as he was going home from work on Saturday afternoon, March 18, he got off a Third Avenue trolley car at Forty-seventh street, and met Elmer Borchers, a friend, who told him that there was trouble up at the house of his mother-in-law.

He had not been there very far before Pichard met his wife walking nervously along the street.

She had secured in her clothing, and lashed him over the head and shoulders. Pichard said that when he left his wife in her wrath, he would have been glad to let her have her way. His wife refused to let him take his clothes away.

Joseph Van Pelt and Elmer Borchers also testified as to the assault.

Mrs. Pichard was put on the stand the second time. She testified that she did not know whether she assaulted her husband or not.

She said that her husband had acted towards her in a brutal manner.

Judge Tighe fined Mrs. Pichard $10 and put her under $200 bonds to keep the peace.

Mrs. Pichard's counsel, Lawyer Bishop, said that he would appeal the conviction in his client's behalf for the annulment of the marriage.

Minor Brooklyn Burglaries.

Mayor Boody Promises Citizens to Have the Police Close Them.

A delegation of citizens from the Fifteenth, Seventeenth and Twenty-third Wards of Brooklyn called upon Mayor Boody, of Brooklyn, to-day to urge him to take some action towards having the police close up the New York creek gate facts.

THE SHOOTING OF CUNNINGHAM DESCRIBED BY WITNESSES.

McHugh, Troy, White and Others Take the Stand.

"Alderman" Frank Duffy did not act like a man who is on trial for his life when he came into the Court of Oyer and Terminer, Brooklyn, this morning, the second day of the proceedings against him for killing George Cunningham.

The session opened with Frank McHugh, known as "Kid" McHugh, on the stand. He took up the thread of his story from the point where he broke off yesterday, and told of his visit to the "House that Duffy Built" with his friend, Cunningham, on the night of Jan. 25, last, how he had gone out at midnight, when Duffy wanted to close up, and was alarmed two minutes later by two pistol shots.

When he returned he met Cunningham, who fell almost in front of him, with a bullet wound just above the heart.

McHugh remained with the body for fifteen minutes, when a soldier came along from the direction of Fort Hamilton, and examined the body and found that Cunningham was dead.

On cross-examination the witness said before going to Duffy's he stopped at McHugh's saloon and drank several glasses of beer.

He met "Scotty" Cunningham in McHugh's saloon, where he was employed to run down McGilroy, who was preparing for a prize fight. Cunningham was noticeably under the influence of liquor.

After remaining in the saloon for some time, witness and Cunningham went to Duffy's. They walked up to the bar and had a couple of drinks.

Then "Scotty" asked for three cards and performed the three-card monte game. Duffy said he had seen that game many years ago. Duffy tried to do the right card, but failed and lost.

Duffy ordered them to leave the saloon as he wanted to close up. Witness had gone seventy-five feet when he heard a shot and turned around and saw Cunningham walking towards him.

He heard another shot and saw Cunningham coming towards him. "I said, 'Murder, Frank, you fell to the ground.'"

Witness said that there had been no quarrel between Duffy and the deceased. Patrick Tracy, a private at Fort Hamilton, testified that on the night of the shooting he saw his way put out for at 12:25 o'clock when McHugh called him over to where the body lay. He remained with the body until the police came.

Policeman Martin H. White, of Fort Hamilton, swore that he was called from his house to go down to Duffy's. Duffy told him to go around to the side door.

"Mr. Duffy," I said, "the witness continued, 'a man has been killed outside, and you are accused of killing him. I have seen the man who did it. I do it or he would have done it to me. I then arrested him, and as we passed the body of the man who was killed, I said, 'It's better if you than me.'"

"To me he said: 'What a man going to do this kind of thing. I don't want to run your place.'"

After Duffy was locked up he returned to the house and got Duffy's revolver. It had been released.

White's examination was suspended until Dr. A. Warner Shepard, county physician, had examined the body. After the post-mortem examination on Cunningham's body and found that he had died of a bullet wound in the heart.

James S. White, a brother of the policeman, said that when brought to the court he was told that the case was on account of a "loafer."

The case is still in progress.

PENNY-ANTE GAME ENDED.

Landlord McDonald's Tenant Paid His Rent with 3,000 One-Cent Pieces.

THE SHOOTING OF CUNNINGHAM DESCRIBED BY WITNESSES.

McHugh, Troy, White and Others Take the Stand.

"Alderman" Frank Duffy did not act like a man who is on trial for his life when he came into the Court of Oyer and Terminer, Brooklyn, this morning, the second day of the proceedings against him for killing George Cunningham.

The session opened with Frank McHugh, known as "Kid" McHugh, on the stand. He took up the thread of his story from the point where he broke off yesterday, and told of his visit to the "House that Duffy Built" with his friend, Cunningham, on the night of Jan. 25, last, how he had gone out at midnight, when Duffy wanted to close up, and was alarmed two minutes later by two pistol shots.

When he returned he met Cunningham, who fell almost in front of him, with a bullet wound just above the heart.

McHugh remained with the body for fifteen minutes, when a soldier came along from the direction of Fort Hamilton, and examined the body and found that Cunningham was dead.

On cross-examination the witness said before going to Duffy's he stopped at McHugh's saloon and drank several glasses of beer.

He met "Scotty" Cunningham in McHugh's saloon, where he was employed to run down McGilroy, who was preparing for a prize fight. Cunningham was noticeably under the influence of liquor.

After remaining in the saloon for some time, witness and Cunningham went to Duffy's. They walked up to the bar and had a couple of drinks.

Then "Scotty" asked for three cards and performed the three-card monte game. Duffy said he had seen that game many years ago. Duffy tried to do the right card, but failed and lost.

Duffy ordered them to leave the saloon as he wanted to close up. Witness had gone seventy-five feet when he heard a shot and turned around and saw Cunningham walking towards him.

He heard another shot and saw Cunningham coming towards him. "I said, 'Murder, Frank, you fell to the ground.'"

Witness said that there had been no quarrel between Duffy and the deceased. Patrick Tracy, a private at Fort Hamilton, testified that on the night of the shooting he saw his way put out for at 12:25 o'clock when McHugh called him over to where the body lay. He remained with the body until the police came.

Policeman Martin H. White, of Fort Hamilton, swore that he was called from his house to go down to Duffy's. Duffy told him to go around to the side door.

"Mr. Duffy," I said, "the witness continued, 'a man has been killed outside, and you are accused of killing him. I have seen the man who did it. I do it or he would have done it to me. I then arrested him, and as we passed the body of the man who was killed, I said, 'It's better if you than me.'"

"To me he said: 'What a man going to do this kind of thing. I don't want to run your place.'"

After Duffy was locked up he returned to the house and got Duffy's revolver. It had been released.

White's examination was suspended until Dr. A. Warner Shepard, county physician, had examined the body. After the post-mortem examination on Cunningham's body and found that he had died of a bullet wound in the heart.

James S. White, a brother of the policeman, said that when brought to the court he was told that the case was on account of a "loafer."

The case is still in progress.

PENNY-ANTE GAME ENDED.

Landlord McDonald's Tenant Paid His Rent with 3,000 One-Cent Pieces.

THE SHOOTING OF CUNNINGHAM DESCRIBED BY WITNESSES.

McHugh, Troy, White and Others Take the Stand.

"Alderman" Frank Duffy did not act like a man who is on trial for his life when he came into the Court of Oyer and Terminer, Brooklyn, this morning, the second day of the proceedings against him for killing George Cunningham.

The session opened with Frank McHugh, known as "Kid" McHugh, on the stand. He took up the thread of his story from the point where he broke off yesterday, and told of his visit to the "House that Duffy Built" with his friend, Cunningham, on the night of Jan. 25, last, how he had gone out at midnight, when Duffy wanted to close up, and was alarmed two minutes later by two pistol shots.

When he returned he met Cunningham, who fell almost in front of him, with a bullet wound just above the heart.

McHugh remained with the body for fifteen minutes, when a soldier came along from the direction of Fort Hamilton, and examined the body and found that Cunningham was dead.

On cross-examination the witness said before going to Duffy's he stopped at McHugh's saloon and drank several glasses of beer.

He met "Scotty" Cunningham in McHugh's saloon, where he was employed to run down McGilroy, who was preparing for a prize fight. Cunningham was noticeably under the influence of liquor.

After remaining in the saloon for some time, witness and Cunningham went to Duffy's. They walked up to the bar and had a couple of drinks.

Then "Scotty" asked for three cards and performed the three-card monte game. Duffy said he had seen that game many years ago. Duffy tried to do the right card, but failed and lost.

Duffy ordered them to leave the saloon as he wanted to close up. Witness had gone seventy-five feet when he heard a shot and turned around and saw Cunningham walking towards him.

He heard another shot and saw Cunningham coming towards him. "I said, 'Murder, Frank, you fell to the ground.'"

Witness said that there had been no quarrel between Duffy and the deceased. Patrick Tracy, a private at Fort Hamilton, testified that on the night of the shooting he saw his way put out for at 12:25 o'clock when McHugh called him over to where the body lay. He remained with the body until the police came.

Policeman Martin H. White, of Fort Hamilton, swore that he was called from his house to go down to Duffy's. Duffy told him to go around to the side door.

"Mr. Duffy," I said, "the witness continued, 'a man has been killed outside, and you are accused of killing him. I have seen the man who did it. I do it or he would have done it to me. I then arrested him, and as we passed the body of the man who was killed, I said, 'It's better if you than me.'"

"To me he said: 'What a man going to do this kind of thing. I don't want to run your place.'"

After Duffy was locked up he returned to the house and got Duffy's revolver. It had been released.

White's examination was suspended until Dr. A. Warner Shepard, county physician, had examined the body. After the post-mortem examination on Cunningham's body and found that he had died of a bullet wound in the heart.

James S. White, a brother of the policeman, said that when brought to the court he was told that the case was on account of a "loafer."

The case is still in progress.

PENNY-ANTE GAME ENDED.

Landlord McDonald's Tenant Paid His Rent with 3,000 One-Cent Pieces.

THE SHOOTING OF CUNNINGHAM DESCRIBED BY WITNESSES.

McHugh, Troy, White and Others Take the Stand.

"Alderman" Frank Duffy did not act like a man who is on trial for his life when he came into the Court of Oyer and Terminer, Brooklyn, this morning, the second day of the proceedings against him for killing George Cunningham.

The session opened with Frank McHugh, known as "Kid" McHugh, on the stand. He took up the thread of his story from the point where he broke off yesterday, and told of his visit to the "House that Duffy Built" with his friend, Cunningham, on the night of Jan. 25, last, how he had gone out at midnight, when Duffy wanted to close up, and was alarmed two minutes later by two pistol shots.

When he returned he met Cunningham, who fell almost in front of him, with a bullet wound just above the heart.

McHugh remained with the body for fifteen minutes, when a soldier came along from the direction of Fort Hamilton, and examined the body and found that Cunningham was dead.

On cross-examination the witness said before going to Duffy's he stopped at McHugh's saloon and drank several glasses of beer.

He met "Scotty" Cunningham in McHugh's saloon, where he was employed to run down McGilroy, who was preparing for a prize fight. Cunningham was noticeably under the influence of liquor.

After remaining in the saloon for some time, witness and Cunningham went to Duffy's. They walked up to the bar and had a couple of drinks.

Then "Scotty" asked for three cards and performed the three-card monte game. Duffy said he had seen that game many years ago. Duffy tried to do the right card, but failed and lost.

Duffy ordered them to leave the saloon as he wanted to close up. Witness had gone seventy-five feet when he heard a shot and turned around and saw Cunningham walking towards him.

He heard another shot and saw Cunningham coming towards him. "I said, 'Murder, Frank, you fell to the ground.'"

Witness said that there had been no quarrel between Duffy and the deceased. Patrick Tracy, a private at Fort Hamilton, testified that on the night of the shooting he saw his way put out for at 12:25 o'clock when McHugh called him over to where the body lay. He remained with the body until the police came.

Policeman Martin H. White, of Fort Hamilton, swore that he was called from his house to go down to Duffy's. Duffy told him to go around to the side door.

"Mr. Duffy," I said, "the witness continued, 'a man has been killed outside, and you are accused of killing him. I have seen the man who did it. I do it or he would have done it to me. I then arrested him, and as we passed the body of the man who was killed, I said, 'It's better if you than me.'"

"To me he said: 'What a man going to do this kind of thing. I don't want to run your place.'"